

CONNECTICUT PRIVACY NOTICE

Last Updated: 1.28.25

Introduction

This Connecticut Privacy Notice supplements our Privacy Policy, and applies to our processing of personal data (sometimes referred to as personal information under certain laws) and the rights you have as a Connecticut resident (individually you or your) under the Connecticut Privacy Act (the CTDPA). If you are a Connecticut consumer, this Connecticut Privacy Notice is designed to help you understand the categories of personal data we collect about you, where we get that personal data, why we process it, who we may share it with, and the rights you have regarding your personal data. Please note, however, that if your information is collected in the context of a business relationship with us, it may not be covered by the CTDPA.

This Connecticut Privacy Notice uses certain terms that have the meaning given to them by the CTDPA, where applicable. Any capitalized terms not defined in this Connecticut Privacy Notice or the CTDPA shall have the meaning given to them in our Privacy Policy. In the event of a conflict between this Connecticut Privacy Notice and our Privacy Policy, the terms of this Connecticut Privacy Notice shall control.

Personal Data Collection & Processing

Categories of Personal Data

The categories of personal data that we collect and process are described in the Information We Collect section of our Privacy Policy. We do not currently process sensitive data, and will not do so without your consent.

Processing Purposes

We may use your personal data for the purposes described in the Collection and Use of Information section of our Privacy Policy.

Sharing of Personal Data

Categories of Personal Data

As described in our Privacy Policy, we do not sell personal data. We may share the following categories of personal data with third parties:

- Log Data
- Device Data
- Personal Information

Third-Party Recipients

The categories of third parties with whom we may share personal data are described in the Disclosure of Personal Information to Third Parties section of our Privacy Policy.

Your Connecticut Privacy Rights

Under the CTDPA, you have the following consumer rights:

Access. The right to confirm whether we are processing your personal information, and access to your personal information, unless such confirmation or access would require us to reveal a trade secret.

Deletion. The right to request the deletion of certain personal information concerning you.

Correction. The right to request the correction of certain inaccuracies in the personal information maintained about you.

Data Portability. The right to obtain a copy of your personal information that you previously provided to us in a portable and, to the extent technically feasible, readily usable format that allows you to transmit such data to another entity.

Opt-Out. The right to opt-out of the processing of your personal information for targeted advertising purposes and profiling in furtherance of solely automated decisions that produce legal or similarly significant effects concerning you (Profiling).

Targeted Advertising

We may process the following categories of personal data for purposes of targeted advertising as that term is used in the CTDPA.

You have the right to opt-out of the processing of personal data for purposes of targeted advertising. To learn more about how you can exercise your Connecticut targeted advertising opt-out right, please see the How to Exercise Your Connecticut Privacy Rights section below.

How to Exercise Your Connecticut Privacy Rights

Generally

If you are a Connecticut resident that interacts with us in an individual or household capacity (and not in a commercial or employment context), you may request to exercise your Connecticut privacy rights by contacting us using the information provided in the Contact Us section of this Connecticut Privacy Notice.

Please note that if you opt-out of Profiling, your experience with our website and other sites that we own or operate will be less personalized.

Please also note that opting out of targeted advertising does not mean that you will no longer see advertisements from us, or that your experience when using our website and other sites that we own or operate will not be personalized based on your activity on our website or our other sites. Rather, the advertisements you will see will no longer be tailored to you based on the combination of your activity on our website and other sites that we own or operate, and your activity on non-affiliated websites, applications, and online services.

An authorized agent may submit a request to exercise your right to opt-out of targeting advertising on your behalf by contacting us using the information provided in the Contact Us section of this Connecticut

Privacy Notice. Please note that an authorized agent must have your authority to submit a request to opt-out of targeted advertising on your behalf.

Authentication

If you submit a request to exercise your Connecticut privacy rights, we must authenticate your identity—typically through your submission of sufficient information for us to reasonably verify you are the consumer about whom we have collected personal data—before we can fulfill your request. You are not required to create a password-protected account with us to submit or authenticate a consumer request, but we may require you to use an existing account. We may charge a fee for information provided in response to a request if the request is the consumer’s second or subsequent request during any 12-month period. We may also charge a reasonable fee to cover our administrative costs in complying with a consumer request if we determine, at our sole discretion, that the nature of a request is manifestly unfounded, excessive, or repetitive.

To authenticate your identity, we generally require the matching of sufficient information you provide to us with your request to the information we maintain about you in our systems. This may involve sending you a link to verify your email address, and/or requesting additional information or documentation solely for the purpose of authenticating your identity. Third-party services may assist us with authentication to prevent the disclosure of your personal data resulting from fraudulent requests. Although we endeavor to limit the personal data collected in connection with requests to exercise your Connecticut privacy rights, this may require us to obtain personal data from you. We will review the information provided, and may request additional information from you to ensure we are interacting with the correct individual.

If you authorize another person to act on your behalf for the purpose of exercising your right to opt-out of targeted advertising, the CTDPA also requires us to verify, with commercially reasonable effort, your identity and your authorized agent’s authority to act on your behalf. Before fulfilling a request from an authorized agent, we may contact you directly to confirm that you have given your authorization to the agent and/or to verify your identity.

In certain circumstances, we may decline a request, particularly where we are unable to verify your identity or the authority of your authorized agent. If we are unable to comply with your request in whole or in part, we will notify you with the reasons for the denial.

Appeals

If your request is denied, you may appeal our decision by contacting us using the contact details in the Contact Us section of this Connecticut Privacy Notice, with the subject line “Connecticut Resident: Appeal of Request Denial,” and attaching both the communication from us explaining why we were unable to fulfill your request, as well as your response to the reasons stated for our denial in the original communication. We will respond to your appeal within the time required by Connecticut law. In the event that your appeal is denied, you have the ability to file a complaint with the Connecticut Attorney General regarding any concerns you may have with the result of your appeal.
